

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to FORCE their stations to air an anti-Kerry program just days before the election is an example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is supposed to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for them and less of what is in the public interest.